“... Sound quality, impeccable together and commitment to making the dialogue between the instruments intelligible ... ”
(Gaetano Santangelo, Amadeus)

The Indaco Quartet is today considered among the most interesting Italian string quartets of its generation: Paolo Viola says of the quartet that is formed by “musicians who have achieved a magnificent sound and exemplary amalgamation, and who have fully entered the elite of the most important Italian quartets”. After graduating from Fiesole, the Q. I. follows specialization courses with exponents of the major quartets of our and also perfected himself within the prestigious Accademia Chigiana with which he collaborates by playing concerts both in Italy and abroad. The quartet was awarded the Scotese Prize in 2017, the “Börsen Club Hannover” and after winning the special prize “Jeunesses Musicales” at the International Competition “Premio Paolo Borciani” 2014, was among the finalists of the same Competition in 2017 and has won several international awards and scholarships. “Compact ensemble, full of enamel and exuberance”, Q.I. highlights its artistic qualities in a vast repertoire, from classical to contemporary, with a particular predilection for 19th and 20th century authors. Guest of prestigious music festivals and institutions in Italy, the Quartet also performs regularly in Germany Switzerland, Ireland, Latvia, Sweden, Portugal, Spain and Holland .He also actively collaborates with internationally renowned soloists and chamber musicians, including Enrico Bronzi, Avi Avital, Julian Bliss, Franziska Pietsch, Josu de Solaun, Bruno Canino, Massimo Mercelli, Claudia Barainsky, Giovanni Scaglione. The quartet recorded for Brilliant Classics, Ema Vinci S.r.l. and Sconfinate in Milan. Since 2017 he has taken part in the international project Le Dimore del Quartetto and has been a quartet in residence at the HighScore festival in Pavia and with the Milano Classica orchestra since 2017.
